THE UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH presents
GUEST WRITERS SERIES
where authors read & engage in CONVERSATION with WRITER IN RESIDENCE and novelist JENNI
FAGAN, followed by Q&A from audience.

New York based counter culture author Tony O'Neill reads for the first time in the UK. One time musician with Marc Almond, Brian Jonestown Massacre, Kenickie and founding member of the Brutalists, he has published four novels including Digging The Vein, Down & Out on Murder Mile, Sick City and his most recent novel Black Neon. He also wrote the memoir Hero of The Underground for NFL player Jason Peter. Tony O'Neill has been based in New York for decades and has never read in the UK, he will be reading from his new novel, in conversation with Jenni Fagan and taking Q&A from audience. Book signings after the event.

'BLACK NEON is a pitch black classic slice of neo- noir, where black magic, art house cinema, drug-fuelled madness and apocalyptic violence collide with dizzying effect. I fell in love with every page." IRVINE WELSH
